

To Kill a Mockingbird - Behave Yourself!

Introduction

We have all had the experience at one time or another of being corrected by our parents (or another adult). We were told to behave in a certain way because “that is how proper young ladies and gentlemen behave.”

Assignment

Make a list below of the manners you were taught, or those you have heard/seen used by others. Then, answer the following questions in at least two well-developed paragraphs:

1. Which of these manners are “for boys” and which are more “for girls”?
2. Why do you think boys and girls might be expected to behave differently in the same situation?
3. Do you think this is fair? Why/why not?
4. Are there certain jobs where people must behave in a way that is different from how other people must act? Why do you think this is?
5. Describe a time when you were corrected for your behavior. What did you do? How did others around you react? Do you think their reaction was fair/appropriate? Why/why not? Why do you think you were corrected? Why do you think it was important for the other person/people for you to behave differently than you did?

To Kill a Mockingbird - Behave Yourself!

Introduction

We have all had the experience at one time or another of being corrected by our parents (or another adult). We were told to behave in a certain way because “that is how proper young ladies and gentlemen behave.”

Assignment

Make a list below of the manners you were taught, or those you have heard/seen used by others. Then, answer the following questions in at least two well-developed paragraphs:

1. Which of these manners are “for boys” and which are more “for girls”?
2. Why do you think boys and girls might be expected to behave differently in the same situation?
3. Do you think this is fair? Why/why not?
4. Are there certain jobs where people must behave in a way that is different from how other people must act? Why do you think this is?
5. Describe a time when you were corrected for your behavior. What did you do? How did others around you react? Do you think their reaction was fair/appropriate? Why/why not? Why do you think you were corrected? Why do you think it was important for the other person/people for you to behave differently than you did?

